By Telegram to The Freeman.
Constantinople, Oct. 4.—Official announcement was made this afternoon that Ismet Pasha, representative of the Turkish Nationalists, has agreed to the main peace and armistice proposals of the Allies at Mudania. It is not anticipated that there will be any serious difficulty in reaching an ultimate settlement.
London, Oct. 4, (4:30 p. m.)—

Ismet Pasha, representative of Mustafa Kemal Pasha and the Allied generals are reported to have reached an armistice agreement at Mudania and to have signed a protocol, according to an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Constantinople this afternoon.
A dispatch from Paris quoted an official statement as saying that the Turks had "accepted the Allied note." This was taken to mean that the Turkish Nationalists had agreed to the Allied armistice terms.

ROB TWO HOUSES HERE SATURDAY

Some time Saturday evening between the hours of 7 and 8:30 o'clock the residence of James J. O'Connor at No. 19 Johnston avenue was entered while the family was absent. Entry was secured through a rear door. Several rooms were ransacked and a large camera, a ladies' Elgin watch with long chain, a gold bracelet, and one gold bar and one silver bar pin stolen. The same thieves, presumably, entered the house of Samuel Gross at No. 25 Johnston avenue, next door, about the same time and stole a 14 karat gold Waltham watch. Entry was obtained by forcing a window while the family was out for the evening.

(A dispatch from Mexico City on Tuesday said that Mexican newspapers printed dispatches claiming that a secret bulletin had been issued by the Mexican section of the United States state department showing partiality for Murgula's cause. This was denied in Washington.)

Dail Defeats Attempt to Eradicate Allegiance.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Dublin, Oct. 4.—The Irish provisional government today issued a proclamation granting amnesty to all rebels who lay down their arms by October 15. It is believed that this offer will make serious inroads in Eamon de Valera's irregular forces, but it is unlikely that the leaders will surrender.
By a vote of fifty to seven, the Dail Eireann defeated the constitutional amendment eradicating oath of allegiance to King George by Irishmen.

Style Shows With Living Models Promise To Be Centers Of Interest—More "Perfect Children" Entered.

Now that tents, decorations, etc. for the Kingston Exposition have been arranged and sufficient space sold to assure a really big project, the management is taking up the entertainment programs. Harry Dodge, chairman of the Entertainment Committee, was in consultation with the manager Tuesday and preliminary programs were laid out for the different evenings and the work of rounding up our best local talent was started.

The exposition will open at 7 o'clock Thursday evening of October 19th with appropriate exercises and some speaker of note will be invited to make an address, following the dedication of the exposition to the city by Mayor Crane. Some musical numbers in addition to those which will be rendered by the orchestra are now being considered.

The Style Show merchants met with the manager Tuesday at the Eagle Hotel for dinner and all became enthused when they learned of the elaborate Style Shows with the living models which it is proposed to have. These will be held on a fully equipped stage with full lighting effect before a seated audience of 1200 to 1500 people and if the experience of other cities is a criterion, this feature will prove a leading attraction and fill the seats every night.

A different class of garments will be shown at each of the Style Shows. The Knights of Columbus, the Elks Club and the Y. M. C. A. have all enthusiastically endorsed the exposition and will have nicely equipped booths to acquaint the citizens of Kingston and vicinity with the purpose and work of their organizations. They will also offer entertainment for the evening programs.

CLASSIS OF ULSTER OCTOBER MEETING

The Classis of Ulster held its regular October session Tuesday in the chapel of the First Reformed Church, with 18 ministers and 25 elders in attendance. Besides these there were five other ministers and three elders who were recognized as corresponding members, with the privileges of the floor. The Rev. H. S. Van Woert of Roxbury became president.

The Rev. Dr. James Cantine, a member of Classis, whose field of service is in and about Bagdad, in Mesopotamia, was designated by Classis to conduct the devotional service. He spoke of several truths in Ps. 36, verses 4, 10, 12, 15, which appeal to the Mohammedan mind, and which at the same time revealed outstanding features of the religious life of the Mohammedan, points which Christians ought to emphasize more than they do.

The matters that especially interested Classis were: The applications from four of the churches for salary aid, the appointment of agents to represent the diffusion of boards and funds of the denomination, the revision of rates of assessment against the various churches, and the reports of conditions in the various pastorless fields. One student was recommended to the board of education for assistance in his course.

The call of the Marbletown Church (Stone Ridge) upon the Rev. Chauncey N. Stevens of Grand Gorge and South Gilboa, to become its pastor was approved.

The Rev. Henry W. Brink of Gardiner Church, was elected a member of the board of trustees for the full term.

The Rev. J. B. Steketee made a report of the classical missionary work.

The Rev. Dr. J. I. Ingham addressed the Classis in the interests of the various benevolent and extension movements of the denomination, calling attention especially to the possibilities of the larger appeal of the progress campaign. This campaign, which was inaugurated in 1918, is to close in 1923; the increased interest in the larger work of the church has become or will have become, to a great degree, the dominating spirit of the various churches.

The Rev. Dr. George C. Lenington spoke to the Classis at the afternoon session in the interests of the ministerial pension fund of $1,000,000 which is being raised. He stressed the need for such a fund, to encourage students for the Christian ministry, and to fulfill the spirit of the Gospel "that they that proclaim the Gospel should live of the Gospel." The resolutions pertaining to the promotion of this fund were adopted by Classis, among them being the designation of October 22 as a day for the consideration of and prayer for this cause.

The meeting of Classis was marked by a fine spirit which gives promise of the larger effectiveness hoped for when the merger of the Kingston and Ulster Classes was undertaken. The First Reformed Church pastor and consistency were gracious hosts and their kind hospitality and the generous entertainment at the Hotel Stayresand were acknowledged by a rising vote of thanks. The next session is to be held in the Reformed Church of the Comforter, on the second Tuesday of April, 1923.

First Fans at Polo Grounds Gossip of Everything From "Matty's" Improved Appearance To What Ruth Will Do.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

Polo Grounds, New York, Oct. 4.—Promptly at 5:54 o'clock, the orange tip of a new-born sun appeared on the sky line off the east and the opening day of another World Series dawned clear, bright, warm and kindly.

Another opening day. There is something about it that gets under the skin. The air of expectancy that pervades, the rush for tickets, the arguments, pro and con, on the respective merits of the Giants and Yankees, the rush of out-of-town guests, the feverish attempts to make one ticket grow where none exists, the scalpers' dawning their nefarious business in out-of-the-way corners of hotel lobbies, is infectious, contagious. You feel, somehow, that you are sitting in at one of life's largest moments.

It is singularly quiet as the sun flings tall, rakish shadows across Broadway. This is Manhattan's zero hour, the vague lull before the storm. A great city still sleeps.

It is very quiet along the line of watchful waters extending from the box office down into Eighth avenue. They are baseball's incurables, the kind that cannot take their sport or let it alone. They are quiet because they are tired. They should be. That line started to form about 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Those in line are waiting to get the choice seats in the unreserved sections of grandstand and bleachers. All of the others are gone beyond recall, unless one cares to go to the mat with the speculators. In spite of all precautions the scalpers have managed to cull their usual quota of tickets from the coffers of the baseball offices.

Box seats they said were not to be had for love or money are being offered for sale by various smug-looking gentlemen who talk out of the corner of their mouths. As much as $175 and $200 is being asked and received for boxes sold at the baseball offices for $70 for three games. Ordinary grandstand seats, originally costing $33 may be had if one cares to part with $150.

It is passing strange, this unusual demand for tickets for an event that is repeating itself. Manhattan played host to the same kind of a private little world series last year and it was thought that interest might be lacking when the Giants and Yankees again won the pennants this season.

As a matter of fact, interest is greater if one may judge by the advance sale of tickets. No one may care a tinker's damn about the winner or loser, but the spectacle of contending teams in a big series brings out the cash customers and probably always will. They are here from all parts of this country and several others, including Cuba, the West Indies and Canada, and they have just about inundated the town. So many of them, in fact, that hotel accommodations have become very uncomfortable.

Most of these worthy souls still sleep. They have nothing to worry about because they already have their tickets. Meantime the long line outside of the park grows longer as white-clothed vendors pass up and down with coffee and sandwiches.

Fortunately it is a warm, sunny day and the prospective customers may discuss the merits of the situation without discomfort. Their talk is of probable pitchers, Joe Bush for the Yankees, and Art Nehf for the Giants.

Bush, a fast ball wonder, won twenty-six ball games in the American League this season and is Huggins' choice to bring home the victory in the first game. Nehf is a curve ball lefthander. He has not

YANKS LEAD IN 6th INNING

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Polo Grounds, New York, Oct. 4.—Score by innings:

Polo Grounds, New York, Oct. 4.—Thirty-eight thousand, two hundred souls in festive mood, hardly keeping with the more or less conventional character of the occasion, watched the New York Giants and the New York Yankees meet in the opening game of the second all-Manhattan World Series today. It was a capacity crowd, filling every seat in the huge wood saucer, and for some reason, an extremely happy one in spite of the fact that many of those in the bleachers and unreserved sections spent the night outside the gates.

The gates were thrown open at ten o'clock and a crowd of more than five thousand otherwise normal citizens rushed the choice seats in the unreserved sections.

Steadily then, like the columns of a marching army, came the remainder of the crowd, quickly closing up the early gaps in the stands.

It was a jovial gathering, in striking contrast to last year's glum audience. Just as though the inter-city factor was paramount, they toted cowbells and whistles, prepared to use both indiscriminately. By noon, there was not a seat left vacant in either of the unreserved stands. The lower grandstand and boxes were sold out days ago. This was New York's mope reply to the assertion that it would not rise to another World Series.

Fortunately for those who waited in the dim, cold shadows of the night to see the dawn and later sit through the anxious hours waiting for action, it was neither warm nor chill, merely pleasant, with a light breeze and a moderate sun.

The Giants came on at a leisurely gait at 12:18 and Nick Altrock and Al Schacht, the major league funny men who had been entertaining the merry villagers, retreated at their approach.

There was nothing worried about the Giants. They had wilted the waiting hour by playing poker in their dressing room and apparently feel that the present occasion is just a ball game, no more.

The Giants grabbed their bats without loss of time and with Cozy Dolan serving them up proceeded to line a few drives to various sections of the outfield.

The business of dodging hot shots began to pall upon Cozy after a bit and he gave way to one Clint Blume, a callow young man just in from Colgate University.

Looking very strange in their gray traveling regalia, the Yanks trooped out into view at 12:50, led by Eddie Bennett, the crippled mascot. Like a good general, the worthy Mr. Huggins brought up the rear just as warped and bowlegged as ever. As an indication of the crowd's sympathy, the Yanks got a bigger hand than the Giants, the reception mounting to the point of a demonstration as the players reached the diamond.

The photographers captured Mr. Huggins and herded him in the direction of the Giant bench to be photographed clasping John McGraw by the fond hand. This is one of the things that must be done.

Bob and Irish Meusel respectively, left fielders of the Yanks and Giants, were also asked to watch the birdie and look pleasant. So was Huggins and Col. Jake Ruppert, no trouble about that since the good-tive eye over the cash customers.

Meantime the Giants continued to blast them to the outfield. Young Virgil Barnes, brother of Curveball Jess, having replaced Blume on the pitching emicene.

At this juncture the fact was noted that the Hon. Babe Ruth was not among those present. This prompted a flurry of concern until Huggins assured inquirers that Babe "would be out in a minute."

It is assumed that the noble slugger was preparing his toilet with more than usual care as befitting the occasion.

When he did appear, it was to come unheralded and unnoticed through the underground tunnel leading out from the lower grandstand.

When Ruth made his thoughtful, sombre way to the bench, he found a delegation from the state of Maryland waiting upon his pleasure. They presented him with a testimonial, signed by Governor Ritchie, assuring him of the commonwealth's esteem and regard.

The Babe was greeted with moderate applause as he took his place at the plate at batting practice.

Facing George Murray he hunted the first ball and then turned the next into the upper stands, the boys giving him another rally.

In order to acustom the Yanks to left hand pitching in anticipation of Art Nehf's appearance for the Giants, Huggins delegated "Lefty" Dearman, a semi-professional from White Plains, to work on the boys, paying particular attention to Ruth, Pipp, Witt and Elmer Smith, who are often annoyed by southpaws.

Christy Mathewson, the Great

Matty of another age, slipped quietly into the press box just before the Giants went out for fielding practice at 1:35. The greatest baseball idol New York will ever know came in so unostentatiously that the great crowd which would have forfeited a day's salary to see and cheer him and make his first appearance in New York in the last three years a memorable one, did not know of his presence. Matty, however, is still convalescent from the illness that forced his retirement to bracing air of Saranac Lake and did not wish to tire himself with endless handshaking. He is here to "expart" the series from the ex-player's point of view.

In practice the Giant infield was made up of Groh, Bancroft, Frisch and Kelly, indicating that Johnny Rawlings, hero of the 1921 games, would remain on the bench for the present.

Quite a stir was occasioned when General Pershing came in with Judge Landis, supreme head of all organized baseball, and pushed their way to a field box along the first base side of the lower stands.

As the Yanks went out for fielding practice, McGraw broke a precedent by announcing his battery 15 minutes before game time. It is Art Nehf and Frank Snyder just as everyone expected it would be. Not to be outdone, Miller Huggins proclaimed Bush and Schang as his choice. This was no secret either. A few enterprising photographers finally discovered Matty and when they lined up in front of him with the idea of snapping the great man at his typewriter, so to speak, the crowd finally tumbled to his identity and raised a great cheer. It had hardly died out when former Governor Al Smith, who is to throw out the first ball, marched in at the head of a band, caperoned by Altrock and Schacht.

Next came Dave Bancroft, captain of the Giants, bearing a wreath for the monument of the late Eddie Grant, former player with the Giants, Reds and Phillies, who fell fighting at the head of his company in the Argonne. The players marched out to the monument in a single file for the solemn ceremony while the crowd stood with bared heads.

The usual conference was held at the home plate just before the game started, Manager Huggins and Captain Bancroft of the Giants reaching an understanding with the umpires on all ground rules.

CITY LEASES NEW BUS TERMINAL

Common Council Tuesday Evening Directs City Authorities to Execute a Lease With Joseph Pessenar for the New Central Bus Terminal for Two Years.

Tuesday evening the common council directed that a lease be executed between the city and Joseph Pessenar for a term of two years for the new central bus terminal at a monthly rental of $50. The new terminal is located at Pessenar's Hotel on Railroad avenue, with parking grounds in the rear of the hotel. The city does not have to pay any rent for the new terminal until the first of the year.

Following a number of complaints lodged with the council and the board of public works by merchants in the vicinity of the Broadway bus terminal, it was decided to adopt the offer of Mr. Pessenar, who agreed to furnish a suitable room for terminal purposes and also a parking ground, which would keep the big busses off Broadway, where it was claimed they interfered with traffic.

The new bus terminal on Railroad avenue is now in operation. Other matters will be found elsewhere.

THE RESTORATION OF PROTECTION

Telegraph to The Freeman. Washington, Oct. 4.—"The signing by President Harding of the protective tariff bill brings to a close an era of Democratic free trade which has lasted almost exactly nine years and ushers in a period of prosperity the duration of which will depend largely on the span of control allotted by the American people to the Republican party," declared the Republican Publicity Association, through its president, the Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr. "A cursory review of the effects of the Underwood-Simmons tariff law, just repealed, is pertinent on this occasion, bearing in mind that the evil workings of that law were suspended by world war conditions beginning ten months after its enactment and persisting down to 1921.

"The Underwood-Simmons law took effect October 4th, 1913. In the words of Mr. Underwood on the final passage of the bill, there was 'not a line of protection in it.' The theory of the measure was that increased imports would result in lower prices, larger revenues from customs, and expanding exports—the more we bought from others, the more they would buy from us. At that time we were enjoying a normal foreign trade which in the decade 1904-1913 aggregated nearly $14,000,000,000 in imports and almost $19,000,000,000 in exports, or a favorable balance of trade averaging about $500,000,000 annually. Six months after the Democratic law took effect, the monthly balance turned against us, and it continued against us down to September, 1914, when war orders from Europe began to turn the scale the other way. The adverse balance in August, 1914, was $15,400,000. At the outbreak of the war in Europe nearly 4,000,000 Americans were out of employment because of industrial depression, and in the big centers of population the only wheels which revolved regularly were those of the soup-kitchen.

"The war gave an impetus to American industry, agricultural and manufacturing, the like of which has never before been experienced, and the vessels of the allied powers were loaded to the pinnacles with food and munitions of war to support the cause. Democratic politicians made capital of this blood-and-thunder commerce, and Secretary Redfield of the Department of Commerce brazenly declared that but five per cent of it was attributable to the war, while the remainder he credited to Democratic policies. Following the war, Europe found her warehouses swept clear of raw materials, and her cities, farms, and industries denuded of supplies, needed for rehabilitating purposes. So the demands for American products continued. From 1915 to 1921, inclusive, we exported $42,000,000,000 worth of goods from this country, or at the rate of $6,000,000,000 annually. Of this vast export value 62 per cent went to Europe, and since European mills and farms were in no position to keep up their foreign trade, we were requisitioned by North and South America, Asia and Africa to meet their requirements.

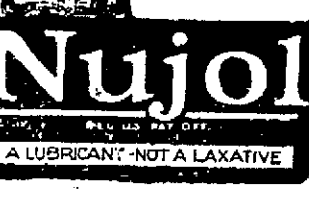

"The calendar year 1920 found our foreign competitors securing a strong position in our domestic market, evidenced by $5,278,000,000 worth of imports, 34 per cent of which were foodstuffs competing with our farm products. The Republican platform, written in 1920, recited: 'The uncertainty and unsettled condition of international balances, the abnormal economic and trade situation of the world, and the impossibility of forecasting accurately even the near future, preclude the formation of a definite program to meet conditions a year hence. But the Republican party reaffirms its belief in the protective principle and pledges itself to a revision of the tariff as soon as conditions shall make it necessary for the preservation of the home market for American labor, agriculture and industry.' The followers of Wilson and Cox reaffirmed 'the traditional policy of the Democratic party' on the tariff.

"The import record of 1920 made some protective legislation imperative, and on May 27th of the following year the Emergency tariff bill was signed by Mr. Harding, having been vetoed by President Wilson a few months previously. With one or two exceptions favorable to the south, farm products have been on the free list in the Underwood-Simmons law. The Emergency law materially restricted this class of imports, at the same time adding to the customs revenues. Coming at a time when the farmers were badly hurt by Democratic deflation and free farm products, it performed its work admirably as a stop-gap measure.

Hemorrhoids

are usually due to straining when constipated. Nujol being a lubricant keeps the food waste soft and therefore prevents straining. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it not only soothes the suffering of piles but relieves the irritation, brings comfort and helps to remove them.

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe. Try it today.

"The Democratic theory that increased imports would mean increased revenues for the Federal treasury was exploded. From 1914 to 1922, inclusive, we imported $27,000,000,000 worth of foreign products on which we realized $2,296,000,000 in customs revenues. Of this total $92,000,000 was collected during the period July 1 to October 3, 1921, when the Republican law was in effect, and about $20,000,000 from the Republican rates on wool and sugar carried over into the following year. The revenues derived from the Emergency tariff law during 1921-22 should not be credited to the Democratic law. Probably about $2,000,000,000 would cover the revenues of the Democratic law during the nine years cited. During the nine years immediately preceding 1914, five of which were under the Dingley law and four under the Payne-McDuff law, we imported $13,000,000,000 worth of foreign goods, which netted the Federal treasury $2,276,000,000. Therefore, less than one-half the imports under Republican tariff laws yielded 38 per cent more revenue than did the Democratic law. All figures used here are taken from the official records.

"It would be unfair to make use of the prices which have prevailed from 1915 down to the present time in arguing against the Democratic contention that increased imports result in decreased living cost. The war and the raised wage level have smothered that issue. Compared with 1913 the index numbers of wholesale prices for 1914 on clothes, fuel, metals, lumber, chemicals, house furnishings and miscellaneous commodities record no appreciable change, while the prices of farm products and foods, which were placed on the free list, show an increase of 3 points each. The expose of supporters' profits recently made by the senate committee on finance shows decisively that not only have the importers absorbed the duties saved to them by the Democratic law in their profits, but they have in a very great number of instances mulcted the buying public of profits ranging from 150 to 2300 per cent on the goods they imported.

"The contention that Democratic policies were responsible for increased wages could not possibly be sound. We can't increase wages by increasing imports. That the American Federation of Labor is fully cognizant of the benefits of protection is amply testified to by the resolution adopted by that body in Buffalo in 1917. 'Resolved, that this convention go on record in favor of a policy of industrial preparedness and the enactment of laws by Congress that will adequately protect all wage-earners of our country against loss of employment through any invasion of the products of any other nation.'

"In short, the Democratic tariff law failed in every particular, so far as domestic interests were concerned. It did not lower prices. It did not increase the revenues. It did not part in expanding exports. It did create depression and cause suffering. The new Republican tariff law is protection, not perfection. It has been passed in the face of the most desperate opposition on the part of importers ever known. It puts the country on safe ground. It is the handmaiden of prosperity and the twin are now one, the nuptials having been sealed by the signature of the president."

Why some people sleep "Lightly"

THE PRINCIPAL REASON is irritated nerves, and the common cause of nerve-irritation is coffee and tea drinking. For each cup of coffee or tea contains from one and one-half to three grains of caffeine.

Caffeine has a tendency to agitate the nervous system, when the nerves, normally, should be relaxed. The result is that you fail to get the deep, restful sleep that restores health and vigor.

If you have any idea that coffee or tea is injurious to your health, drink delicious Postum, instead. Postum is the pure cereal beverage that helps the nervous system, by permitting you to get sound, revitalizing sleep.

Serve this fragrant, mealtime beverage. You and the family will be surprised and pleased with its delicious, coffee-like flavor. And better health is worth while.

Postum comes in two forms:—Instant Postum (in tins) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling fully twenty minutes.

CALLS ARMY BEST U. S. INSURANCE

General Harbord Decry "Conspiracy" to Substitute Disarmament Vastly More Expensive in Long Run.

Washington, Oct. 4.—Comparing the American army to a giant insurance company, Major General James G. Harbord, deputy chief of staff, today charged a widespread conspiracy exists to displace its "old line insurance with a much advertised substitute, called disarmament, presented as a panacea for every national ailment from callouses to consumption."

This "fake substitute" is being pushed "in the interest of firms who are rivals of ours across distant seas and especially in the Oriental trade," the general told the convention of reserve officers, and added:

"It will be presented to you in very attractive form by some of the smoothest agents in the business, among them those who in the enthusiasm of newly-conferred suffrage, and anxious to do good, will endeavor to flood the market with this fake substitution for old line insurance, urging it with all the fascinating inconsistency of mingled charms and hysterics which so often characterizes lovely women—without whose approval no war has ever been waged."

Many a profiteer, "grown swollen and gross with ill-gotten gains on the distress of his country," General Harbord continued, "now pleads for perpetual peace to save a guilty conscience."

Referring to himself as "assistant to General Manager Pershing," under "chairman of our local board, John W. Weeks," Harbord said his board of directors "which meets under the dome of the capitol," is out of touch with the stockholders, the American people.

It is a fact that heavy assessments on the shareholders have been necessary to carry out even a diminished program for the firm," he continued. "The management, however, cannot bring itself to believe that you stockholders wish to perpetuate the vicious circle of false economy bringing unpreparedness with its train of untold cost in blood and gold, compelling further parsimony to bring about a repetition of the same ghastly history in time to come. We claim that your board directors does not know your wishes, or if it does, it doesn't act upon them and substitutes its judgement for yours—its judgement conceived in the comfortable office of the politician seeking to perpetuate himself in office—your judgement born under the guns of the enemy and matured in slime of the trenches and the reek of battle."

"We of the management ask a continuation of your confidence," the general said, in closing. "We ask you to remember the faithful service given by our firm with its three-part constitution in which you not only are a stockholder, but now a full partner—service enduring for a century and a half of our national life. Ologues and isms may come and go and conferences may confer but human nature remains the same—men will be men—trade is trade and nations will fight for economic supremacy—the millennium is still far below the horizon. We do not wish for war any more than the ordinary life insurance company wishes for death or long for Asiatic cholera, yellow fever, a bloody battle or a sickly season. But no business man cancels his fire insurance policy when there is a conflagration in the next block. See that your representatives, our directors here in the nation's capital know your wishes and under the lash of your displeasure, that they carry them out. Give us a rising market on the army and we promise you heavy dividends in the next emergency."

enjoyed a very prosperous year but he held the Yanks to thirteen hits in three games last year and may do the same again. He is just the type that figures to annoy our noble Yanks.

The talk is also of McGraw and his system of running his team, play by play, from the bench. Huggins and his little, warped countenance, his inclination to allow his athletes to do their own thinking, if any.

It is also of Babe Ruth, dethroned home run king, and the fact that the honorable Babe is coming to the series in first class condition, whereas he was forced to remain in the dugout during the last three games last year because of injuries. It is common gossip that when Ruth hits the Yankees hit, otherwise seldom and more often not.

The talk is also of the betting odds, which have fallen from seven to five to six to five and even on the Yankees. Some small bets are made but most of them are just talked about. There is still an inclination in evidence to do a little or no wagering. Somehow the boys are laying off the series as a speculative proposition and are making small bets of the game to game variety.

The rumor that Hugh McQuillan, righthand pitcher of the Giants, might be out of the series, furnished food for gossip. He was hit on the leg by a batted ball in yesterday's practice but confidence was expressed at the Giant clubhouse that he would be ready to go in and pitch any time.

The talk ranged along to the fact that Christy Mathewson is in New York for the first time in three years. Marty is down for the series from his convalescent cottage at Saranac Lake where he fought a winning fight against dread disease and is now almost well. He is here to "expert" the series and spent his first day gladdening old-timers, of which there is the usual quota.

The old wonder pitcher of another age is as sun-tanned as an apple and ten pounds heavier than when he was the big star of the game, but he has aged some and his strength is not what it was.

A comparison of the two infields helped to while away the tedious hours. They discussed Kelly, Frisch, Bancroft and Groh, the Giants' so-called million dollar infield, in relation to Pipp, Ward, Scott and Dugan of the Yanks, and the consensus of opinion called it a standoff. It was much the same with the outfielders and catching but even ardent pro-Giants could not deny that the Yankees carry the big edge in pitching with Bush, Bob Shawkey and Walter Hoyt primed to pitch the first three games against a Giant pitching staff that has been nothing short of pitiful through the last six weeks of the season.

"Pitching will win," was the sense of the gathering, "and the Yankees have it."

Back of it all, however, is the realization that the Giants muster the best hitters in baseball and a guiding genius second to none in John McGraw. They are a great ball club, outside the box, and they have a great system.

The Yanks have none or extremely little. But they can turn loose a lock of good pitching and behind it they have the slugging of Ruth, Schang, Bob Meusel and Pipp, not as consistent as the Giant batters, but more dangerous.

In short, these weary watchers argue, it will be a case of the Yankee defense versus the Giant hitting and speed, and they are not so far wrong at that.

Many contend that the first game will decide the ultimate outcome. The series has been shortened from nine to seven games and the fact that both clubs hang much of their success upon Bush and Neft, means that a defeat for their favorites today will embarrass the future plans of his club exceedingly.

The batting order:

Yankees: Wirt, cf. Bancroft, ss. Dugan, 3b. Groh, 3b. Ruth, rf. Frisch, 2b. Pipp, 1b. "Irish" Meusel, rf. Bob Meusel, lf. Schang, c. Kelly, 1b. Ward, 2b. Stengel, cf. Scott, ss. Snyder, c. Bush, p. Neft, p.

Umpires: Klem, National League, at plate; Hildebrand, American League, at first base; McCormick, National League, at second base; Owens, American League, at third base. Starting time 2 p. m.

GARDEN CLUB ANNUAL MEETING

The Ulster Garden Club held its annual meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles Finch on Pearl street on Tuesday afternoon. Annual committee reports were given and the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Everett Fowler; first vice-president, Mrs. Williams Carter; second vice-president, Mrs. Charles De La Vergne; third vice-president, Mrs. Fred Darrow of Saugerties; secretary, Miss Marjorie Drake; treasurer, Mrs. Charles Finch; members of the board of gardeners for three years, Mrs. Clarke Reed of Saugerties, Miss Sarah Horton and Mrs. George Hutton to fill out the unexpired term of Miss Ella Van Deusen who resigned from the board of gardeners.

The club members were indeed entertained and highly informed with a talk on "Photography," given by Mrs. Charles Mercer Hall, who has become what one might well call an "Expert Amateur Photographer," doing all the work of the professional from the taking of the picture to its final mounting, herself. The talk was illustrated by upwards of a hundred photographs taken by Mrs. Hall, all of them very artistic, with some of children and gardens, being quite exquisite.

The next meeting of the Garden Club will be held on October 17th at St. John's Parish House, at which time the state botanist will tell of the value of our wild flowers and their preservation, the talk being illustrated. The public is most cordially invited to attend this meeting.

A BRIGHT DREAM FADES.

It begins to look as if the disarmament and naval scrapping treaty arrangement was but a bright dream destined soon to fade, a mere gesture of more than doubtful governments under the pressure of popular demand. The months have rolled by without sufficient ratifications of this treaty or any of the others to put it or them into effect, a neglect that now has a decidedly purposeful look. Senator Borah seemed to have the facts on his side when he recently declared that the treaties "have been treated with indifference by all the powers and with utter unconcern by some." And now, while war clouds hang in the Near East, it seems to be regarded as an appropriate time to announce that there will be no ship scrapping until all the powers have ratified—a consummation which at this late, and possible new war in prospect, is scarcely to be expected.

The situation seems to be accepted as a matter of course at Washington. Complete and effective ratification no longer appears to be counted on. Indeed, we read that "officials have felt that the Near East situation might lead to some of the signatories changing their plans." Has the Washington conference, after meeting popular demand of the moment, already served the real purpose that was in view, and will there be no further effort to put the treaties into effect now that a forgetful public is occupied with new interests? Possibly these questions are somewhat more searching than the known facts warrant, but undoubtedly they have arisen in many minds in consequence of the marked suggestion of calm and indifference in the tone at Washington as well as in the leading capitals of Europe.

ENTER SIKI.

Time was when a defeated champion of the prize ring was followed in his fall by the sympathies and even the tears of his old admirers. Such fidelity has been repeatedly noted in both America and England, and even in France Carpentier retained his popularity after he was slugged to the floor by Dempsey. Yet when Carpentier went down before the black "Frenchman," Siki, we read that he was mocked and jeered over by his formerly enthusiastic friends. Perhaps the fact that "the glory was still France's" had something to do with it, the new champion having been one of her colonial soldiers. But even that can hardly explain the reported brutal abuse and universal repudiation of the gallant Carpentier, also a former soldier and by all accounts a gentlemanly fellow as well, while frenzied and spectacular idolatry was being lavished on the new king of the prize ring.

In that fickle mob at Paris the worship of mere brute force seems to have reached its wildest extreme. Siki, a West African negro born in Senegal, a French possession, is said to be likened by his Paris manager to "a highly trained gorilla," and doubtless the comparison is not lacking in point as applied to his brain as well as to his body. Nevertheless he is now king of French pugilism, the idol of a mercurial mob, and already his manager demands 1,100,000 francs net, "exclusive of income tax," for his appearance in New York. What Dempsey thinks of a ring encounter with "a highly trained gorilla" the interviewers have not yet ascertained, but it is a safe bet that he would prefer his next antagonist to come out of civilization rather than out of the jungles of Senegal.

The London story that Ambassador Harvey's legs are as thin as those of King George comes as a surprise. When he first appeared at court in knee breeches the cables told us his calves were envied even by bishops, who, it seemed to be implied, usually excelled in this particular.

In spite of the opposition of the Anti-Saloon League, including appeal to the United States Supreme Court, Ohio is to have its beer referendum, exercising a privilege that this fall will be accorded also to the voters of Massachusetts, Illinois and California.

A German geologist asserts and Prof. Turner of Oxford denies that the American continent is drifting westward and slowly leaving Europe behind. There is an impression in this country that America left Europe behind long ago.

With plentiful predictions of both a mild and a severe winter, and with the solution of the coal problem still uncertain, there is opportunity for the cultivation of philosophical resignation whatever the outcome.

TERWILLIGER BUS PETITION AGAIN

This Time Aldermen Reject His Application to Operate Rifton Bus Line by Vote of 11 to 2, but the End is Not Yet.

Following a public hearing held Tuesday evening the common council on the motion of Alderman Macholdt, seconded by Alderman Joy, voted to deny the application of James A. Terwilliger to operate a bus line between Rifton and Kingston, the vote standing 11 to 2. This is not, however the last to be heard in the matter for it is expected that Frank W. Brooks, attorney for Mr. Terwilliger, will invoke court action to compel the council to review its vote.

Chris J. Flanagan, attorney for Martin Jordan who operates the New Paltz-Kingston bus line, appeared in opposition to the granting of the Terwilliger petition. He called attention to the fact that if the application was granted it would furnish opposition to the Jordan bus line as it would cover practically the same territory.

Corporation Counsel Walter N. Gill called the attention of the aldermen to the fact that they were not called upon to pass on the question of public convenience or necessity, but the only question for them to consider was the placing of an additional burden on the city streets.

"In that connection," said Attorney Brooks, "I desire to call the council's attention to the fact that at the present time the Jordan bus line is illegally using the streets of the city."

No one further desiring to be heard the public hearing was closed and Alderman Macholdt's resolution voted upon. Aldermen Van Wageningen and Behrens voted against its adoption, and Aldermen Belchert, Cashman, Williams, Keating, Joy, Mann, Kullmann, Macholdt, Buchholtz, Martin and Ryan in favor.

Other matters taken up will be found elsewhere.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Department of this paper, enclosing self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. Are sweet potatoes really potatoes?
2. Is there any way to keep sap-sucker woodpeckers off trees?
3. Can bees find their way home if their hive is moved?

Answers In Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. Can you recommend any books on wild flowers of the western regions?

There is an excellent fieldbook, Western Wild Flowers by Margaret Armstrong; another is Julia W. Crenshaw's Wild Flowers of North American Mountains, which covers the Rocky Mountain region. Both are well illustrated both in black and white, and in color.

2. Does a beaver make any nest inside its house?

It makes a sort of sleeping bunk, by building the floor at one side of the hut on a higher level than at the entrance. The explanation has been offered that this allows a beaver coming in from the water to drain off a little before actually going to bed.

3. We have so many of the purplish blackbirds in flocks on our fields. What is the way to get rid of them?

These crow blackbirds or grackles are disliked for their habit of settling on fields, and students differ as to whether they do more good than harm. Minot in Birds of New England condemns them; Wright in Bird Craft defends them unqualifiedly; Forbush, in Useful Birds and Their Protection gives findings by the U. S. Biological Survey showing the birds' stomachs—2,500 were opened—mostly full of useless or harmful material. Better hang strings of fluttering rags to scare them from the fields, and try shooting off a few noisy and sparky fireworks.

BRITAIN WILL PAY ASSERTS M'KENNA

Owens Foreign Securities Worth Two or Three Times Amount of Debt—Other Countries' Debts Corelated.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 4.—The problem of adjustment of international debts is one "in which England and America are equally concerned and in which both have the same interest as creditors," the Right Honorable Reginald McKenna, former chancellor of the British exchequer, told the American Bankers' Association here today.

Great Britain will pay her debt to the United States, McKenna said, but he intimated strongly that he regarded adjustment of other foreign debts as closely correlated with the time the payment is to be made and the mode of payment that is to be followed.

"Notwithstanding her immense sale of securities to the United States in the second and third years of the war," McKenna said, "England still owns sufficient foreign securities to cover her debt to the United States two or three times over. But neither France nor Italy has similar reserves of wealth and I doubt whether either of them has sufficient to meet more than a trifling debt."

France's debt, McKenna declared, is far too great to be taken care of by the production and exportation of goods because the immense demand for trade commodities created by the war "has no parallel in peace."

"The conclusion to which I am driven," said McKenna, "is that Germany can only pay now whatever she may have in foreign balances together with such amount as she can realize by the sale of her remaining foreign securities; that this payment is only possible if all other demands are postponed for a definite period long enough to ensure the stabilization of the mark; and that future demands at the expiration of this period must be limited to the annual amount of Germany's exportable surplus at that time. Further, that England has the capacity to pay to the United States interest and sinking fund of her debt; but that the others are none of them in a position to meet more than a small part of their external liabilities and in the existing condition of Europe, a definite postponement of any payment by them is desirable in the interest of all parties. The actual amount which the other debtors could ultimately pay, should, as in the case of Germany, be ascertained by a full and frank conference between creditors and debtors."

HALL TELLS OF "Y" FOREIGN WORK

Raymond S. Hall is visiting the Kingston Y. M. C. A. today and Thursday in the interest of the foreign work of the "Y." This morning he spoke at the high school.

He has served with the Y. M. C. A. for fifteen years in China and became associated with the Tientsin Association in 1907, when he took over its educational work. Today it has grown to a membership of 2,000 men and boys, a staff of 20 Chinese, and five American secretaries. It occupies one of the thirteen modern Association buildings in China.

During the 1917 flood which swept over a great section of north China Mr. Hall headed the committee and did excellent work. He was awarded the 5th class Chia Ho decoration for meritorious service by the Pekin government. He also accomplished excellent results during the famine of 1920-21.

Old Age in Cats.
Did you ever see an old cat (the animal)? An old, rheumatic, palsied, blind, gray-whiskered dog is no uncommon sight; but the cat, Tom or Julia, who is his contemporary, shows none of these marks of the cruel hand of time. It is true that a grandmother cat has acquired dignity, but she is just as lithe and successful in her mouse-catching as she was in her cat-low days. The scars of battle may be on an old cat, but these cannot be called signs of age. Think it over, and ask yourself if you ever saw an old cat!

Earth Always Meeting Meteoroids.
The earth in its orbit is constantly encountering meteoroids. These are countless small bodies in the solar system. Their velocity is so great that the resistance of even a rare portion of atmosphere raises their surfaces to white heat, thus converting them into meteors, also known as "shooting" or "falling" stars, aerolites, fireballs, bolides, etc. The majority of these particles are entirely dissipated, but some pass out of atmosphere again and sometimes remnants fall to earth as meteorites.

Meadow Lark Useful Bird.
The meadow lark is a familiar bird of grassland throughout the United States. Alike on eastern meadows, western prairies and southern savannas, its clear pipe as sweet and clean as silver, may be heard in spring, announcing the return of the season of procreation and growth. More than half of the lark's food consists of harmful insects. Its vegetable food is composed of either noxious weeds or waste grain, and the remainder is made up of useful beetles or beetles.

"THE FIRST YEAR" A GOLDEN PLAY

"The First Year," a tragic-comedy of married life, will be produced at the Kingston Opera House Saturday night after two years' success in New York City. Frank Craven, the author, contends that the first year of married life is the hardest and most tempestuous, and after carefully absorbing his argument as propounded through three vastly entertaining acts, one is convinced that the first year—on the stage at least—can be about as tempestuous as any succeeding year possibly could be. Nowhere except on the stage could the subject be treated in a way to produce smiles not only among the uninitiated but among those who may look back at tempests in teapots which arose in their own experience. "The First Year" is produced by John Golden, the producer of "Lightnin'," "Three Wise Fools," "Turn to the Right" and other successes.

CARRIES MUSIC MANY MILES

Horn Said to Have Transmitted Sounds Distinctly for a Most Remarkable Distance.

A length of 35 feet and an opening of 12 feet square are the measurements of the world's largest horn for broadcasting music received by radio. This giant horn is in successful daily operation at Loma park, a public amusement resort in California. The broadcasting capacity of this huge instrument is sufficient to carry radio music throughout an area of approximately 29 square miles.

In addition to the general interest in its sheer size and amplifying range, it is of absorbing importance to the radio expert because of the fact that, through the use of its electro-dynamic reproducer, such true tones have been produced as to eliminate what is technically known as "distortion."

One thousand feet of clear airplane spruce lumber went into the construction of this horn. The engineers who built it were confronted with difficulties of design and erection, owing to its giant size. It is equipped with a late type of radio reproducer and power amplifier.

Of course the construction of the horn was more or less in the nature of a spectacular "stunt" on the part of the amusement park, but the basic idea is nevertheless impressive. It is just another indication of a far-reaching influence which warrants attention.

EVEREST TOP STILL UNTOED

But British Explorers in Recent Attempt Got to Height Never Previously Attained.

The highest point above sea level ever reached by a human being afoot, 29,300 feet, was attained, with the aid of oxygen-breathing apparatus, by two members of the Mount Everest expedition at noon, the 27th of last May, says Henry S. White in the Popular Mechanics Magazine. This brought the explorers within 1,702 feet of the summit, the highest point on the earth's surface. The final attempt was to have been made June 6, but the monsoon broke June 3, definitely frustrating any further efforts for this year at least. When the monsoon breaks on Mount Everest, there is no alternative but to get off the mountain as soon as possible.

It has now been definitely proved that the mountain itself at the highest points reached is not difficult to climb, and the two explorers who came so near to reaching the actual summit were able to proceed along the north face without ropes. The one and only obstacle that made the summit unattainable was the bad weather, and with the monsoon left out, it is certain that the summit will be reached at the next attempt. The two explorers who reached this highest point were Capt. Geoffrey Bruce, one of the leaders of the expedition, and George Finch, a scientist attached to it.

Rough Men and Robins.

A few days ago a car inspector looking over a coal train at Arkville, N. Y., discovered a bird's nest on the top of a journal box of an empty car. Investigation disclosed two baby robins in the nest. The orphan birds at once became the center of attraction for the yard men and the various train crews. It was quite evident the young robins needed parents.

In an effort to find the home of the young travelers it was learned that the empty car had been picked up at West Davenport, 54 miles distant. A delegation of switchmen, yardmen, trainmen and other interested persons immediately waited on the division superintendent. The car was hooked on to an engine and taken back to West Davenport, where it was spotted in the railroad yard at the exact place from which it had been taken. The frantic mother bird found her little ones and everybody was happy.

Campaign Terrors.

There was a wild and frenzied scaterment. Men, white-faced and staring, fled as if pursued by a pestilence. They dropped whatever they had in hand and stood not upon the order of their going, but departed like frightened roebucks, hitting only the high places as they went.

"Why are the people fleeing?" we asked. "A candidate who calls himself 'the friend of the people' has just come to town," replied an innocent bystander who had no vote.—Kansas City Star.

A Tired Business Man.
"What is the exact age of Mr. Grabgoil?"
"It's rather uncertain."

Was Mythical Monarch.

Prester John was the title given to an imaginary Christian sovereign, who, according to medieval tradition, ruled over an extensive empire in the interior of Asia during the Twelfth century. This myth is supposed to have originated in the stories of the Nestorian missionaries, who, in the Eleventh and Twelfth centuries, penetrated into eastern Asia and converted to Christianity one Oang, a klan of Tartary. In 1177 Pope Alexander III dispatched an envoy to Prester John, but the ambassador never returned; and in 1254 Louis IX of France sent Rubroquis, a French friar, to search for him, but the journey proved fruitless. In later years tradition transferred Prester John to Abyssinia, where he continued his mythical existence as king of that country.

The Question of Echo.

Bare walls are not the best thing in the world for the radiophone broadcasting studio. Recently, one of the leading studios moved into a large, beautifully decorated room, with paneled walls and smooth, unbroken ceiling. Previous to that time, the studio held forth in what had been the cloakroom of a factory office, where the bare walls had to be hidden with draperies and rugs, while the ceiling was broken up by beams. However, the results obtained with the old studio room were excellent, for the reason that there was practically no echo or sound reflection from the walls and ceiling. The new studio room will have to be provided with tapestries or some other form of sound-absorbing hangings in order to reduce echo.—Scientific American.

Art of Lighting.

At a meeting of an engineering society one expert expressed the opinion that the illuminating engineer can treat a cathedral very much as a painter does, by emphasizing the lights and shadows. He has confidence in the results to be obtained by a solution of the problem of luminous paint. He described a concert hall ceiling, 125 feet square, which has been illuminated with a great variety of electric lights, modified by screens, so as to produce the effect of a vast glowing, but harmoniously colored, oriental rug. He believes that in time there will be used twisted luminous tubes, and that means will be found better to make the atmosphere of a large room glow without the slightest visible means of illumination.—Washington Star.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MRS. COW'S PARTY

"Moo, moo," said Mrs. Cow, "I hope you will all come to my party."

"Do you mean you would like me to come, too?" asked Mrs. Brown-and-White Cow as she looked at Mrs. Cow.

"Of course, my dear," said Mrs. Cow. "I want every cow in the meadow to come. Yes, I invite you all."

"I won't ask you to bring your knitting or a piece of embroidery, as I know none of you have knitting, nor have you embroidery."

"It is true that I haven't any such work either, but then I mentioned these things because when ladies give tea parties they tell their friends very often to bring a piece of work with them."

"I suppose that is to let the ladies know that they will not ask them to work for them when they come to the parties."

"But at any rate I just ask you to bring your sweet cow selves."

All of the cows looked much pleased. "Moo, moo, I accept with pleasure," said Mrs. Brown-and-White Cow.

"Moo, moo, I do too," said Miss Brown-and-White Cow.

"And I'd be delighted to come, simply delighted," said Mrs. Brown Cow. So spoke all the cows.

Every one of them accepted and there were quite a number of cows in the meadow so that it looked as though Mrs. Cow would have quite a big party.

"Dear me," said Mrs. Brown-and-White Cow, "I forgot to ask you when your party was going to take place."

"Why, moo, moo," said Miss Brown-and-White Cow, "I forgot to ask you too."

"Moo, moo," said all the other cows in turn, "we forgot to ask you too."

"And I forgot to tell you," said Mrs. Cow as she swished off a most annoying fly.

"But I will tell you now," she added. "The party will take place in fifteen minutes," she said. "I haven't a watch nor have I a clock and to my knowledge none of the rest of you have watches or clocks."

"Watchmakers would be poor if they depended upon cows for a living."

"But we all know that fifteen minutes is not a very long time. And so in a short time will you all join me?"

"Moo, moo," said all the cows, "we will indeed."

"Of course," added Mrs. Brown-and-White Cow, "we haven't very long a time in which to get ready, I must see if I'm looking my 'cow best' and she looked down at herself and swished off a fly or two.

"You see," said Mrs. Cow, "I knew that none of you had engagements this afternoon and you all looked as though you needed a little refreshing party and so I thought I'd suggest it."

"I'm not like some creatures who give invitations in advance and then hope that some of their guests will refuse, and that then they can ask others and so have the credit of inviting many without the fuss of having to entertain many."

"I'm not like that."

Well, in a very short time all of the cows followed Mrs. Cow down to a stream. One by one they went, and how slowly they did walk.

"Take your time," said Mrs. Cow, "take your cow time. We have no engagements until milking time. None at all."

So they all took their time, and you should have seen them, following their hostess, Mrs. Cow, down to the stream.

When they were there they went wading, but they didn't have to hold up their skirts for fear they'd get wet. Oh no, they didn't have to fuss at all!

And they drank some of the pleasant water in the stream and they chewed some of the grass about the banks of the stream.

They talked a little, but they didn't bother much to keep up any conversations.

Oh, it was a very restful, refreshing party, and every one said later, when milking time came around what a nice afternoon they all had had, and what a fine party Mrs. Cow had suggested.

And Mrs. Cow was very glad that her party was a success, for who is not glad to have a successful party and to have the guests pleased and happy?

RAILROAD HAS WATER WAGON

Contrivance Said to Work Successfully in Minimizing the Discomforts of Dusty Tracks.

An appliance for sprinkling the right-of-way over the dusty stretches of track has been invented by W. H. Whalen, superintendent Los Angeles division, and is being tried out with apparent success by the Southern Pacific on its lines between Indio and Palm Springs, heretofore a very dusty section of track. According to the Literary Digest, a writer in the Southern Pacific Bulletin (San Francisco) says: "The sprinkler consists of a perforated pipe attached beneath the water tender of the locomotive in such a way that water is sprinkled on the track as the train passes over it. According to Mr. Whalen the experiments have proved very satisfactory, and South-

CHOOSE!

"If you go to him—that thief—you've got to leave us. And once you do, you cease to be our daughter!"

That was the bitter choice Tad O'Donnell gave his daughter on the day he discovered her secret.

Pride! The pride of a young girl in her new-found love—which drove her to break home ties and home hearts! The pride of a stern father who thought he was doing right by his daughter! Pride—which breaks hearts and desolates homes!

And this young girl—just as millions of other young girls have done when First Love knocked at their hearts—let her heart choose. Here is a drama that will grip your heartstrings. These are your neighbors! People you know! A father and mother and daughter—and the man.

ern Pacific is planning the installation of these sprinklers on all its passenger locomotives operating in desert country. The scheme is an innovation in railroad operation. The Southern Pacific has made various attempts to allay dust by sprinkling oil over its right of way in desert country, but none of them has proved as effective as the "railroad water wagon."

Dream of Death Fulfilled. To dream of an accident three times and then witness its fulfillment has been the unhappy experience just recorded of a Hobart (Tasmania) man. A laborer employed by the Hobart city corporation was turning the hand winch of a crane. The jib of the crane swung around and a wire rope came into contact with the high tension electric wires overhead. The result was that the laborer was electrocuted. A week before the accident one of the man's workmates was uneasy in his mind. He was troubled by a strange dream that was repeated three times. In his dream he saw a fatal accident at the crane. It occurred in exactly the same way as that which caused the actual accident. He told his mates of the dream, which had made such a deep impression upon him, and it was the subject of considerable discussion. The fulfillment of the dream came as a shock to those who had been made familiar with the story.

Maori Faith Healer. Interpreting Christianity to suit his own ideas and what he believes to be for the best interests of his people, Wiremu Ratana, a Maori faith healer, is reported to be doing an influential work among the aborigines of New Zealand and to be effecting cures which have the appearance of the miraculous. Discarded implements of the halt and maimed are said to testify to the reality of his cures, and his name has become a household word even among the white people. Ratana regards it as his chief mission to eradicate from the minds of his people that superstition—the sinister growth of ignorance and tradition—which in spite of schools and education continues to hold down the Maori people.

Pearls Long Isolated. The imitation of pearls is not a new industry, but was carried on centuries ago. In the inventory of the jewels of a French lady of high degree in 1731 there is named "un collier de perles fausses," a necklace of false pearls, but more than a century earlier pearls were made in France by a jeweler named Jaquin, and so successful was the manufacturer, it was said the finer ones were bought up by the dealers of Asia and became rare in France.

Give Them a Chance. We do not believe in firing serenaders for disturbing the peace. They should either be encased or shot, according to the gravity of their syncope. —Kansas Industrialist.

What They Cost

What does it cost to feed a child? Sometimes little, sometimes much. That depends on the food they get.

The premier food for a child is oats, you know. Mothers for ages have known that.

And the finest oats that grow—just the cream of fine oats—cost less than a cent a dish.

Food value is measured by calories.

In Mother's Oats, 1,000 calories cost 5 cents.

Those 1,000 calories, in the average meat dish, cost nine or ten times that.

Those are reasons for serving Mother's Oats.

They are called Mother's Oats because children love the flavor.

Insist on this quality—make the oat dish delightful—if you believe in oats.

MOTHER'S OATS

The luxury dish—large, luscious flakes. Made for mothers who want children to love oats.

MANY MATTERS BEFORE COUNCIL

Aldermen Held a Busy Session Tuesday Evening — Mrs. McCutcheon Seeks Refund for Alleged Over-Charge—Street Department Work.

At the regular monthly meeting of the common council Tuesday evening all of the aldermen were present and enough resolutions were introduced and referred to the board of public works to keep that body busy on street work for a considerable length of time.

Alderman Cashman called attention to the fact that last month the council had adopted the recommendation of the corporation counsel and city assessor to grant Mrs. Catherine McCutcheon a refund of $23.20, and that a check for that amount had been sent her. Since then he had learned that she was not satisfied, claiming that she had been assured that she would be refunded $63 which she said was due her as she had been over-assessed that amount on the Hasbrouck avenue sewer construction.

After some discussion the council decided to notify the city assessor to be present at the November meeting and explain why Mrs. McCutcheon was not allowed the full amount she claimed.

The following resolutions were introduced and referred to the proper boards and officials:
Alderman Belcher—That warning signs be placed on the streets in the vicinity of School No. 6; that house numbers on South Manor avenue be changed to conform with change of street, starting No. 1 at Albany avenue, as Manor avenue is now divided into two streets, North and South Manor avenue.

Alderman Mann—That a sanitary sewer be constructed in Hudson street as residents there have signed a petition asking that it be done; that the board of public works place more powerful lights at the approach to the Roundout Creek Bridge on Abbot street; that Forsyth Alley be paved.

Alderman Williams—That Murray street be repaved; Third avenue repaved and repaved; Lawrence street repaved; Moore street repaved.

Alderman Ryan—That incandescent light be placed on Wilbur avenue, between West O'Reilly street and South Wall street.

Alderman Keating—That Catherine and East Union streets be repaved; that sewer in Yeomans street, between Gill and Ponchocock streets, be cleaned and repaved.

Alderman Cashman—That Stephen street be repaved as it had been placed in present deplorable condition by city and city should fix it; that the petition of the residents of Gage street to have street repaved be granted by board of public works.

Alderman Martin—That a light be placed on Washington avenue near No. 286 and present incandescent light removed; that a light be placed at corner of Emerson street and Lucas avenue; that on south side, Main street along Thompson property; that a light be placed corner of Snyder avenue and north side be removed; that Wall street, between Main and Henry streets, be repaved.

Alderman Jay—That board of public works investigate dangerous condition of streets in Sixth ward.

Alderman Machel—That holes in the Grove avenue made by Kingston Gas & Electric Company last spring be repaired at once at gas company's expense; that catch basin corner Loran and Brewster streets, be flushed and repaired.

Alderman Bachholtz—That incandescent light be placed on Prospect street, head of Van Dusen street.

Other matters taken up will be found elsewhere.

CITY LIBRARY GIVEN $1,000

Last month the trustees of the Kingston City Library on Broadway met with the finance ways and means committee or the common council, asking for an additional appropriation of $2,000 to carry on the work at the library more efficiently.

Tuesday evening the finance committee reported at the council meeting that the only amount available was $1,000, and recommended that that amount be turned over to the library. The report was unanimously approved, and the council ordered that a warrant for that amount be drawn and forwarded to the library trustees.

Making Wood Fireproof.

Wood that will not burn is, of course, a much-to-be-desired thing. It is reported that not long ago there was tested on a considerable scale in England an American invention for making wood non-inflammable. It appears that the sap is first withdrawn from the wood by evaporation in heated vacuum chambers. Then a fireproofing solution is forced into the pores of the timber, under hydraulic pressure. It is said that wood thus treated resists decay as well as fire.

When Speculation Is Unprofitable.

The intellectual failure of the Greek was his inability to see the point at which philosophic speculation so far outruns facts as to become unprofitable. That his speculations on the evolution of life and on the atomic nature of matter are in line with the facts established by modern science is not mere coincidence. It is rather the insight of master minds groping toward the truth without sufficient factual knowledge.—From "Science and Human Affairs."

CHAPTERS OF RED CROSS AT ALBANY

Roll Call Plan and Other Things of Interest Discussed at Regional Meeting Attended by Kingston Delegates.

On Tuesday, October 3, the Albany Chapter of the American Red Cross entertained the regional chapters at a conference held in Albany at Chaseville's Hall, Educational Building. The Ulster County Chapter was represented by Mrs. C. W. Hasbrouck, secretary and head of the home service department of the local chapter; by Miss Ruth Smith, assistant secretary, and Mrs. C. N. Reed, member of the executive committee.

L. S. Greenleaf, chairman of the regional group of chapters, presided at the opening meeting which opened at 10 o'clock. Following the invocation by Father Joseph Scully, the subjects of finance and roll call were first considered, the chief speaker on the roll call, which will begin on Armistice Day, November 11, being J. Arthur Jeffers, of the national headquarters.

Probably some phases of this talk will be of interest to the members of the Ulster County Chapter as well as to the people of Ulster county who are, may be and ought to be members of the Red Cross. The plan of campaign for this coming roll call most favored by Mr. Jeffers was this: The securing, by the roll call committee, of competent and interested persons for each block in the city or corresponding section in the country who would act as solicitor for his or her own block. First, such solicitors to call, leaving pertinent literature and telling about the Red Cross work but absolutely not accepting money at that time. After a few days the solicitors should make their second call, after the educational work has had time to sink in, and secure the memberships. And right here is a matter of import to every local chapter. Should Mr. A. or Mrs. B. give the solicitor $5 or $10 or $25 instead of $1, still only 50 cents of their contribution, the same as in the dollar memberships, has to be sent to Washington, the remaining $4.50 or $9.50 or $24.50 remaining in the treasury of the local chapter. A solicitation campaign by mail was decidedly proven to be a failure, bringing practically no adequate results either as to interest, education or funds.

Another exceedingly interesting subject considered and vividly described was that of the "Life Saving" department of the Red Cross. There is today a wonderful Red Cross Life Saving Corps in Schenectady and this was explained as to organization, cost, maintenance, operation, etc., by Frank Hopmann of Schenectady, chairman of the department there. Then Captain Martin J. Mac Donagh of Troy gave an actual, if a land, demonstration of the training for life saving work that was intensely interesting. When one considers the swimming and bathing possibilities of Ulster county, together with the number of annual fatalities from drowning, the question arises as to why such a department here might not be of incalculable value.

During the home service session it developed that all chapters were finding themselves handicapped rather than assisted by the Veterans' Bureau and a strong resolution asking for actual cooperation, more efficiency, results in favor of our disabled service men, etc., was passed unanimously. A further report of this session will be given at the annual Red Cross meeting soon to be held in Kingston.

Then there was an animated round table discussion of the subject of public health nursing, many suggestions of value for the local chapter having been brought back to be presented also at the annual meeting.

At 1:30 the delegates and speakers adjourned to the new Park Restaurant near the Educational Building, where a delicious luncheon was served.

At the afternoon session, Dr. Frank P. Graves, commissioner of education, acted as chairman. During the consideration of "Disaster," much light was thrown upon practical preparation for emergency coming under each head, some of the ideas being available for our local chapter.

Before opening the session of the Junior Red Cross, Commissioner Graves said that he had been learning a great deal while presiding at the meeting, but felt that even in the face of such knowledge gained, the most valuable feature of the entire conference was to come during the junior period. Most unfortunately the Kingston delegates, in order to make their train, were obliged to leave before the junior session opened. This was the last feature of the program, all of which had been informing and interesting.

TWO TREATED FOR FRACTURE OF LIMBS

Articles For Indian Barrel.

There is still room for a few more articles for the Indian Missionary barrel to be sent to Oklahoma next week. Those mostly appreciated are clothing, toys, five yard lengths of linens, gingham, outing, sewing materials, etc. Articles may be sent at once to Mrs. Van Leuvan, Wall street or notify Mrs. Hewitt Boice, 110 Fair street chairman and she will call for them.

COUNCIL SEEKS AMBULANCE BIDS

Alderman Macholdt reported to the common council Tuesday evening that the committee of three, made up of Aldermen Van Wageningen, Keating and himself, had held a joint meeting recently with a committee from the board of health and the police board to discuss the matter of a new ambulance for the city.

As the result of the meeting it was voted that the old ambulance be repaired and that the police department continue in charge of the ambulance work. The three aldermen, however, were not in favor of that plan and voted against the proposition.

Alderman Macholdt Tuesday night recommended that the committee be continued and given power to seek bids and specifications for the new ambulance, and that it report back to the council later.

After considerable discussion the recommendation was adopted and the committee will proceed to gather information and bids.

Birds Usually Fly Low.

Though some astronomers have on unusually clear nights seen birds cross between their telescopes and the moon's disk, and have estimated their elevation as high as two miles, it is unusual for birds to migrate at altitudes greater than 5,000 feet, as a rule. They tend to keep below lower clouds. This is deceptive because the higher they go the colder it gets and the harder it is for them to breathe.

Aviators report having encountered birds above the 5,000-foot altitude. High-flying birds are geese, cranes, swallows and other common varieties. When weather is bad, especially when it is cloudy, all birds fly low.

INVEST WISELY

The accompanying advertisement is reproduced here and at our own expense because it sets forth so clearly the very points we have endeavored to drive home in connection with our First Mortgage 6% Gold Bond offering. The habit of buying public utility securities — at least those of the Central Hudson System of Companies, is getting hold of investors in this section. Already, over 2,500 customers and residents of the Valley have purchased bonds of this issue and more names are being added to the list every day.

The Scotchman's Heaven

It is the custom, time honored, to approach investment matters in a grave and serious vein, and so reflect the solidity of the securities offered.

But it is the exception that proves the rule, and even in so solid a field as the financial, there are exceptional investments offered.

To those who are Scotch by purse (if not by birth) the securities of the Light and Power companies of America should appeal strongly, offering as they do maximum safety and maximum return, and this is paradoxical only until the reasons are given.

First of all, we haven't as a nation the Public Utility Security buying habit, just as before the war we hadn't the Government Bond buying habit — and habit, imitation, (merit aside) plays a big part in security sales, just as it does in the clothing business.

Wise ones are just beginning to discover that the utility has something to offer in its securities that even from a banking standpoint is about air-tight.

First, partnership in a basically necessary service to society — power and light. (Making for vitality of investment.)

Second, an industry under public control through State commissions — an insurance of safe management.

Third, a potential future market twice as big as the present — securing and assuring future earning power.

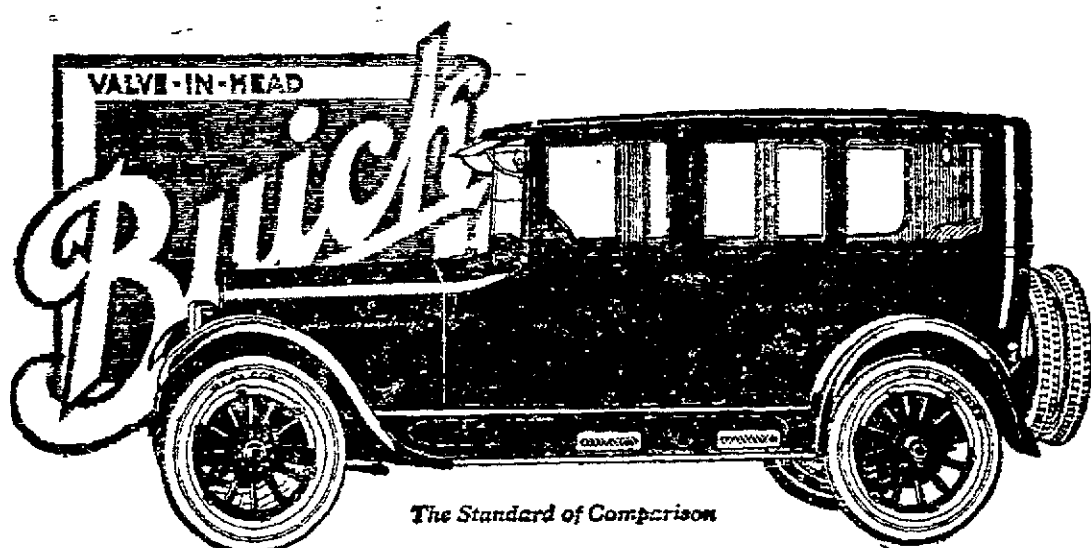

It is significant — and any statistical chart proves it — that prices, strikes, inflation and deflation and all the other ills to which securities are supposed to be subject, seem to miss the Public Utility.

Remember this when you read what they offer the investor in the percentage column — today.
